

Whether you are camping, preparing for a natural disaster, or the end of modern society, a good food supply is crucial. There are several food companies out there providing food for purchase. We have found one of the best tasting for the money is wise foods. Wise foods provides everything you will ever need for whatever situation you are in.

For that camping trip they have stoves, fire starters and smaller portion packs. The freeze dried food packs are light and packaged small to easily fit in a backpack. For less than $60.00 you can have breakfast, lunch, and dinner for 2 people for three days. All you need to add is water and a way to heat it. With stove kits starting at $30.00, you can get away for a few days and spend under $100.00. If camping is not your style but you want to be prepared for a natural disaster, Wise foods has what you need.

With packs available to last from 72 hours to 2 weeks you can be prepared no matter the circumstances. These packs come with food, first-aid kit, water, whistle, water purification, gloves, rope, and many other necessary items. These packs range in price from $80.00 to $249.00, a low cost to be prepared. If you need something larger then maybe the Wise bulk food buckets is what you need.

The Wise food bulk buckets come in different sizes, some will supply you with food for 72 hours while others up to 12 months. These buckets are usually more specialized. You can get buckets that have entrees, vegetables, or breakfast. They also sell kits that are a combination of all the above. These kits can range in price from $40.00 up to $8700. The $8700 bundle comes complete with 4320 servings of food and a solar powered generator, to ensure you are ready for whatever comes your way.

Wise foods is the way to go for whatever your needs are. All Wise foods have a 25 year shelf life, easy to prepare, great taste, and affordable. Make Wise foods your choice for your survival needs.
